The rules of conduct are intended to provide participants in the ECA regulation update process with an environment conducive to civil discourse where all views are welcome and will be treated with respect. Basic rules of conduct are as follows:

1. Everyone who wishes to do so will be given the opportunity to speak.
2. Speakers must state their views respectfully without personal attacks, insults or disparaging comments.
3. Everyone is expected to respect the views of others even when they disagree with those views. Disruptive behavior will not be tolerated. Any person who persists in disrupting the proceedings will be asked to leave.
4. Speakers are expected to focus their remarks to the specific question being discussed by the Commission at that time and avoid extraneous issues.
5. Everyone will be expected to respect the person speaking and interruptions will not be allowed.
